Living in the Snow

by Peter Lang

Peter Lang's recent travel diary, Living in the Snow, describes the lives of the Inuit people in northern Canada. Most of us know that the Inuit live in extreme cold, build houses from snow, make clothes from animal skins, and use dog sleds to travel around. But the lives of the Inuit today are very different from the traditional lifestyle of their grandparents.

Igloos are traditional Inuit homes. They are made from snow. Nowadays, most Inuit live in modern houses with many rooms and heating. The Inuit live in small villages in the north far away from big cities. There are schools and hospitals. They can buy food in local shops. Most of the food comes from the south. Fresh food is very expensive. That's why many Inuit hunt for meat. They hunt for seals, caribou and whales. They also like to catch fish and eat it.

F. Read the text above and write true (T) or false (F) next to the statements.

1. _____ Peter Lang is a writer.
2. _____ The Inuit live in the north.
3. _____ The Inuit today live as their grandparents did.
4. _____ Most Inuit live in igloos.
5. _____ The food in the shops is cheap.

G. Read the text above and choose only five letters (A - H) to describe the Inuit.
